"Just because someone doesn't love you the way you want them to doesn't mean they don't love you with everything they got."

As humans, it is inevitable that we will encounter relationships in our lives that we don't fully understand. The relationships that are formed with people, especially the relationships that we form with people when we are younger, give us the experiences we use later on in life to form the newer relationships. When we are older and have more experiences, and are just meeting people who are in the same boat, the way that we treat each other may not always be fully parallel or copacetic, as we may desire. This should not always be a deterrent to developing new relationships for it is in these times that great relationships can be formed.

If you are experiencing something similar to this in any relationship that you have right now be sure to examine the situation, but when you can, give the benefit of the doubt to the fact that not everyone has been taught to love the same. Sometimes you can really help people along the way, by showing them how to love more passionately instead of just deserting them.

Source:  here
Posting Disclaimer Notice:
This posting is not my own creation collection. My effort is copy paste only. I got it from internet posted by someone else. I'm just saving some time for you to avoid searching everywhere. I'm not violating any copy rights law or not any illegal action which I'm not supposed to do. If anything is against law please notify me so that it can be removed.