"Good relationships don't just happen. They take time and patience and two people who truly want to be together."
When we enter into a relationship with someone we usually do so with the hope that we will be together forever, and we make an agreement with one another to be there for one another and to make each other better. We must always remember when entering a relationship that it is not about who you are apart, but instead it is about what you can become as a couple.

Both parties in a relationship should make a diligent effort to not only work hard on themselves, but to help the other party in the relationship work hard on themselves as well. Doing so will cause some disagreements, and of course no two people will see eye to eye on everything, but as long as a person's efforts are done only out of the motive of their love for another, chances are everything will work out for the best for both parties.

Source: here
Posting Disclaimer Notice:
This posting is not my own creation collection. My effort is copy paste only. I got it from internet posted by someone else. I’m just saving some time for you to avoid searching everywhere. I'm not violating any copy rights law or not any illegal action which I'm not supposed to do. If anything is against law please notify me so that it can be removed.